FOREWORD

NO CHECK can be placed upon time. It passes by us, no matter what effort we exert to retain it. It is only memories of the present that we are able to record. The staff of the nineteen hundred and thirty-two Yonahian has made a sincere attempt to focus the college life of this year on the few pages that follow, so that in future years, by turning these pages, college days may be lived over again.

DEDICATION

TO THOSE who help to make Piedmont possible, the staff wishes to dedicate this volume of the Yonahian. The theme of this book—A Greater Piedmont—is the sincere hope of every Piedmont student, and it is only through the aid of those who have the sympathetic determination to educate and train American womanhood and manhood that this will be possible.

Childhood and Youth

“WE should pay as much reverence to youth as we should to age; there are points in which you young folks are altogether our superiors; and I can't help constantly crying out to persons of my own years, when busied about their young people, ‘Let them alone.’ Don't be always meddling with their affairs which they can manage for themselves; don't be always insisting upon managing their boats, and putting your oars in the water with theirs.”

Field Day

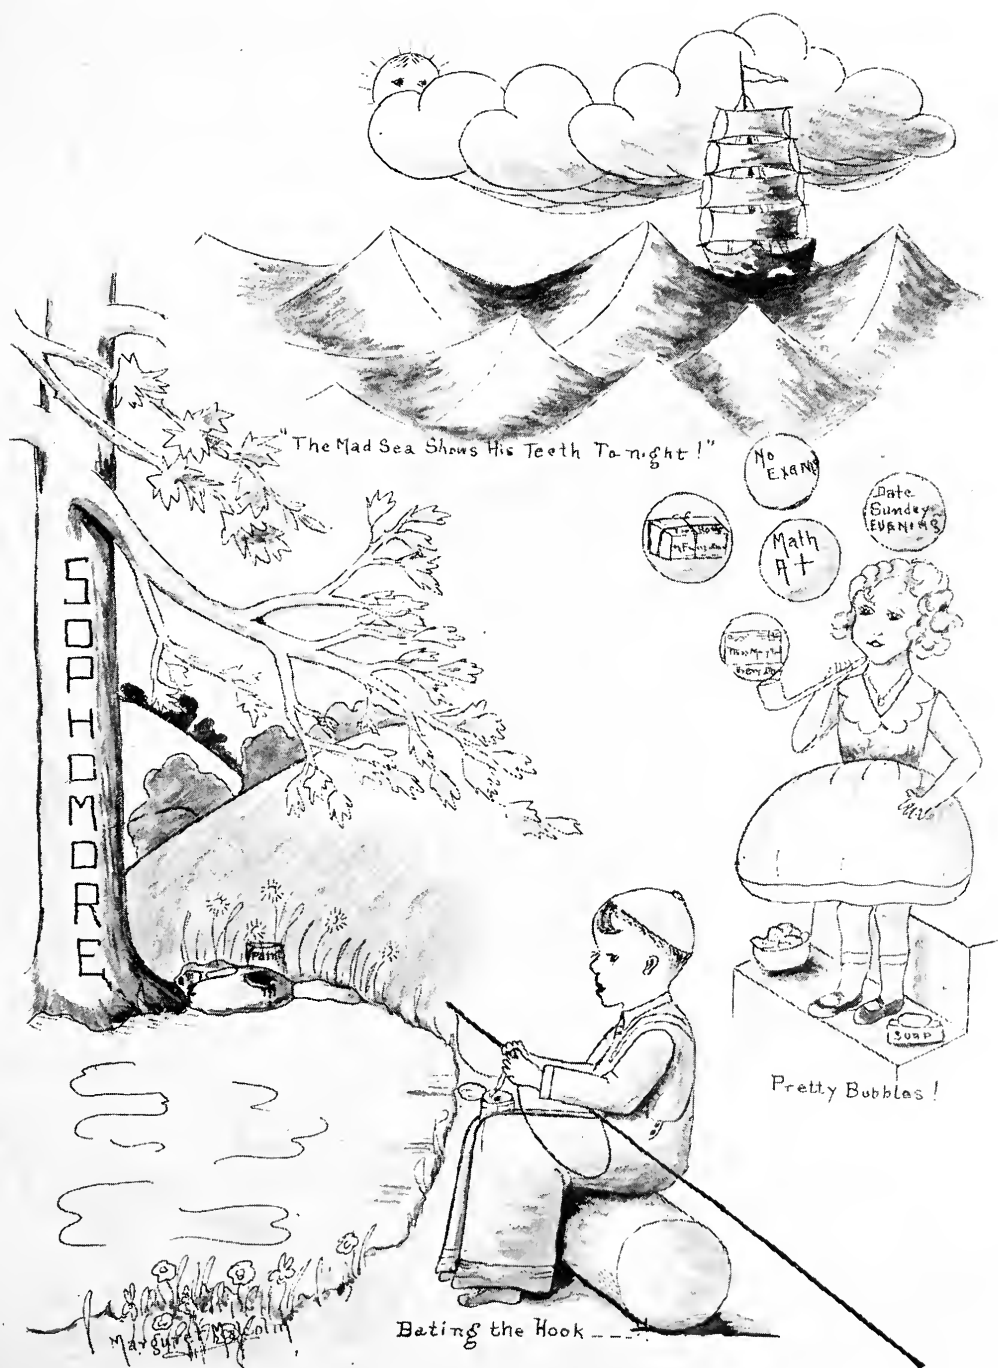

*P*EP! At no time during the school year is there such a manifestation of pep and a sense of keen rivalry as there is during the ten days preceding Field Day. Sophomores and Freshmen, Freshmen and Sophomores—that's all you can hear. Who will win the trophy? Ask a Freshman and you are assured that there's no doubt but that the Freshman class will win. Query a Sophomore, and, according to them, they already have the trophy sacked up. Naturally, you can't depend on the answers you get as to who has the best chance at gaining victory. If you fall in the group of upperclassmen, you won't know much about what's going on in either the Freshman or Sophomore class. Just be a patient bystander until the holiday approaches. Then take tonsillitis from yelling your vocal chords out for your sister class. (Now why couldn't you upperclassmen show such pep all the year 'round at football games and other athletic contests?)

The big day comes around with a thud. The cogs of the long days of practice come to a standstill. Field events begin promptly. The score stays at a very even mark. But the Freshmen win. Evening draws nigh. The contest is only half over. Stunts count just as much as the athletic events. A real display of talent is cropped out of the two lower classes. Originality must be shown—and truly, it is.

The final curtain is drawn. The stunts have been presented.

"Now judges, bring forth your decisions." The judges go behind the curtain.

The Freshmen win the stunt . . . and the trophy. The day is over. Sportmanship is divided, because both classes have maintained it throughout the day. But what a day!

ATHLETICS

The "P" Club

THE "P" Club is an organization on the campus that is composed only of members who have earned their letters by participating in the allotted number of quarters in different branches of athletics. The members cherish their earned letters, because they represent faithful, hard and earnest labor on the athletic field and long hours of practice on the basket-ball court.

1931 Baseball

THE 1931 baseball season for the Lions was one of the most successful seasons in Piedmont's baseball history. She did not lose a single college game.

The Lions played some games out of the regular schedule, and lost them. She lost two games to Greensboro, North Carolina, and one game to the Parris Island Marines. But no college team was able to trounce the fighting Lions, because of the wonderful baseball skill that every Piedmont player manifested throughout the entire season. Every cog of the team seemed to fitting where it should. Piedmont's fielding was excellent, and her batting average was just as good.

The pitching staff of the Lions contributed greatly to the success of the 1931 season. Lawrence, now teaching at Blue Ridge, Ga., was one of the best hurlers that Piedmont has had. He was dynamite to any college team. Gardner, another ace pitcher, was right in there to send the opposing nine to the field. They just couldn't hit him. Spivey also pitched good ball throughout the season.

Piedmont's line-up remained practically unchanged throughout the season. Taft Gill, catcher, John Mize, first base, Bob Smith, second base, Jack Bass, short stop, Guill, third base, Hoyt Chambers, outfield, Lewis Chambers, outfield, and Claude Rickman, outfield, formed one of the best combinations for a successful baseball team that has ever played baseball on Haldeman field.

Chambers, Rickman, Lawrence and Spivey did not return this year. They are now coaching teams of their own. Piedmont's infield remains practically unchanged from last year.

THOSE who almost earned their letters and fought hard the whole season were Wilbur Jones, Harry Swindell, Conrad Coghill and Edward Hagood.

Those who played their last game for their Alma Mater and played it well were Marshall O'Rear, Taft Gill, Hoyt Chambers, John W. McGarrity, Herbert "Trigger" Griggs and Clyde Starnes.

THE Piedmont Lions began practicing for the strenuous season that lay ahead of them for 1931 about two weeks before school opened. Men came out in their uniforms when the heat was almost unbearable, and manifested a spirit that is not equalled by any college football team. They set in from the beginning to win. There was not such a large number of reserves to begin with, nor did the number pick up so much after registration day. But all the men, both varsity and scrubs, were fighting all the time. That's what it takes to make a football team anyway—fighters.

Coaches Forester and Jones kept in behind the men all the time, and all the players were eager to learn all the football tactics that they could, because some of them were a little inexperienced.

The season opened with the Young Harris eleven on October 3. The game was played to a decisive victory for the Piedmont Lions—the final score being 40-2. The Lions had a good start for the season and kept earnestly preparing for the hard struggle they knew they would have with the gridironers at Boone, North Carolina.

The Piedmont Lions left the campus to play Boone, N. C., on October 17. But the Lions met defeat at the hands of Appalachian State Normal with a score of 17-12. But, my, how the Lions did scrap. Maybe they could have done better on their home gridiron.

Then came the game with Newberry on October 24 at home. The game rocked along until almost time for the last whistle, when Newberry slipped over the marker for one lone touchdown, making the score 7-0 in favor of Newberry. But Piedmont remained in Newberry's territory almost the entire period of playing.

The tables were compelled to turn. South Georgia Teachers College came up to Demorest, and although they put up a hard, clean fight, they had to return home in the face of a decisive victory for Piedmont with a score of 17-0. The Lions were looking forward to the game with Rollins on Thanksgiving day.

The Lions began to realize what team work meant. They journeyed to the campus of Alabama Teachers College on November 17. This was the second game of the season to be played on foreign territory. The Lions marched on the field to win. The final score was 12-17 in favor of the Lions.

With a lapse of only a period of one week, the Lions were again to journey on to meet one of the strongest foes of the season. Piedmont met Newberry on her own gridiron on November 14. This was one of the hardest fought games of the season, but the Catawba eleven proved too strong. The final score was 7-20 in favor of the foe.

Now the season was nearing the climax. Almost two weeks of time were to lapse between the Catawba game and the Rollins struggle, which was to be played on Homecoming day, November 26. The Lions worked faithfully and hard. The Rollins eleven, without any doubt, was the toughest team to be met the whole season. Rollins was sent out from Winter Park to bring home the bacon, since she was defeated by Piedmont on her home field last season. On Thanksgiving day, the hardest fought football game of the season was witnessed by a crowd well over a thousand. The Lions hammered through the Rollins defense to remain in their territory almost all of the time. They drove back the terrific onslaught of the Rollins eleven until the end of the first half, when they nosed over the marker for a touchdown just as the whistle blew for the close of the period. They made their chance for the extra point good. Piedmont scored in the second half, but because of a terrific wind, the ball was swept barely out of the space between the goal posts, and the final score rested at the figures 6-7 in favor of the Florida delegation.

Thus, the season came to a close. The Lions fought hard from the very outset until the blow of the final whistle which closed the season. Three games won—four games lost.

WELCH
Center

This is Hoyt's first and last year with the Piedmont Basketeers. He was always in there to get the tip, and throughout the game was in the midst of the thickest fight. We'll miss him next year.

SMITH
Forward

Bob has been with the Lions three successive years, and through all of this time he has been a real fighter. Bob is accurate in throwing the ball through the "hoop."

HARRIS
Running Guard

When it takes fight to win, call on Harris. He's in the game from beginning to end, and is hard to follow. This is his first year at Piedmont. May his next three years of playing be as brilliant as this one.

MIZE
Forward

If the ball doesn't go through the hoop, there's very little chance in winning a ball game. That's John's philosophy. But Piedmont always scored over the opposition. John is one of the best shots and fighters that ever set foot on Piedmont's court. He is very consistent.

FARMER
Forward

Roy played for the Lions back in high school days. That proves his ability as a basket-ball player. He was always willing to co-operate, and knew full well the meaning of team-work. He knew how to follow the ball.

SWINDELL*
Forward

Harry is admired for his incessant fighting. Although he doesn't stay in the game all the time, he's got as much interest in the team as any member of the squad. That a boy, Harry. Show 'em what's in you.

HIGDON

Backguard

"Hig" is one of the best guards ever to play with the Lions. The opposition didn't function so well down in his territory. "Get your man" is Hig's philosophy of winning a ball game. All right, "baby doll," we'll be looking for you next year.

KING

Backguard

Ted came over to Piedmont from Southern Union, and manifested a real fighting spirit. He was not with the team after the first semester.

HUDSON

Backguard

"Hud" knows his basket-ball. He plays the game well, and lets the opposition know that he's in the game. This is his first year with the Lions.

Forward

How in the world do you do it, Conrad? He knows how to keep the ball away from the opposition and at the same time, work it down to his own goal. A good shot, a hard fighter and a good sport—that's him—all over.

BUREL

Guard

Gordon started out well at the first of the season, but for some reason was not able to stick out.

HEAD

Center

James is a good prospect for the varsity five of next year. He played in several games this year, and earned his letter. He's a sticker and loves the game. This is his first year.

Boys' Basket-Ball

UNDER the efficient direction of Coaches Forester and Jones, the Piedmont Basketeers were destined to have a brilliant season. A large number reported for the first practice, but all were new faces with the exception of Higdon, Mize and Smith. From Piedmont Junior came Welch, King and Harris. The other varsity men were U. L. Hudson, James Head, Harry Swindell and Coghill.

The Lions had a very successful season, winning second-place trophy at the state tournament at Statesboro.

Girls' Basket-Ball

*You can't beat Piedmont's fight,
You can't beat Piedmont's fight,
You may have the steam of an elephant's team,
But you can't beat Piedmont's fight.*

THIS seems to have been the motto of the Piedmont girls this year and it is quite appropriate. The season was a successful one due to the ability of Forester and Jones as coaches and to the spirit in which the girls responded to their directions. We met defeat at the hands of only two teams, Interstate and Winnepasauka, both from Chattanooga. We defeated Interstate once to balance the defeat from them; then Interstate defeated Winnepasauka thirteen points; so we feel that we could defeat Winnepasauka under normal conditions.

SCORES FOR THE SEASON ARE AS FOLLOWS:

HIGDON

Manager and Center

Joe was a steady fighter all over the court, and was one of the best feeders and defensive men that we have produced. She also helped in the scoring. We are sorry that this is her last year at Piedmont.

BORING

Guard

Emma was one of the brightest stars of the season, and she certainly did shine. It's hard to say in which way she excelled,—as a fast guard or as a sure shot forward.

COURTENAY*

Backguard

Any and all forwards had a hard time shooting over our quick backguard, for she really knew how to break up the opposition. She can dribble and shoot, too.

DEWAR

Guard

Sally was sometimes forward too. She played well and hard in either place. She has plenty of pep and fighting spirit.

GILL

Captain and Forward

Rosie has been a member of the varsity five ever since her arrival at Piedmont, having made the trip to the national tournament in Wichita, Kansas, in 1928, and played three brilliant games while there. She will certainly be missed when the team marches on the court next season.

*No Picture.

BERRYMAN

Forward

Elizabeth was anxious to do her part in playing the game. She will be here again next year. Keep the colors flying, Liz.

DODD

Guard

It's good to know that Dodd will be right back in there again next year fighting for the Green and Gold. She has made a good beginning and we are proud of her.

LOTT

Forward

She's little in size but a Lott when it comes to basket-ball. Lack of size was made up for with aggressiveness.

CHANDLER

Guard

Kat can give trouble to forwards, too. Her name isn't lightning, but it's swift.

GRIGGS*

Center

Mary has played her last basket-ball with the Lions, but it is understood by the grim determination that she always set forth on the court, that she will be rooting for the Lions after she has gone out into the world. Luck to you, Mary.

Cheer Leaders

NO COLLEGE athletic team can function at its best without the support of the students. It takes pep to encourage the participants in any game. But students won't exert much peppy effort unless they have someone to encourage them. That's the reason for having cheer leaders. This year, the cheer leading has been excellent, due to "Red" Ratliff and Sally Dewar. They have been very energetic in keeping victory a hope in all the minds of loyal Piedmont students. May next year be still a peppier year.

The Writers' Club

THIS year another interesting feature was added to the activities of the Piedmont campus. This added attraction is the Writers' Club. It is an exclusive organization having as its members only upper classmen and freshmen who average "B" in English.

Under the presidency of Elmer Crawford, an organization was begun which we hope will continue to be an important factor in Piedmont's activities.

The purpose of the Club is to aid in creative, original, writing. It makes poor writers good and good writers better. It inspires a greater love of good literature and brings its members in closer touch with modern authors.

Professor Phillips has the honor of being the founder of the Writers' Club. It was largely through his encouragement and initiative that the organization has had a very successful year.

The Glee Club

*T*HE atmosphere surrounding Piedmont is forever saturated with music. No doubt this fact is due to the feats of our College Glee Club.

At the beginning of the year President Newell expressed a desire that Piedmont might come to be known as a singing college. Perhaps through his inspiration, and by the able assistance of the Director, Miss Margaret Newman, the Club was stirred to the accomplishments and success which have been so profound this year.

The purpose of the organization is to supply music at the Vesper hour each Sunday and to render special programs at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter. This it has done so beautifully throughout the year; each and every one of the programs has reached the hearts of listeners as only music can.

Not only do the members of the Glee Club profit, but also those who hear these inspiring programs. Thus, Piedmont is becoming, more and more, "a singing college."

The Spanish Club

THE Spanish Club consists of the Cubans, students who are studying and have studied Spanish, and those especially interested in Spanish. Primarily the purpose of the Club is to deepen interest in Spanish affairs. The head of the department, Mrs. Ensminger, is always on hand to offer helpful suggestions and thereby contribute a great deal toward carrying out the purpose of the Club.

Once a month the Club meets for an evening in the Spanish room; programs are given and songs are sung; only Spanish is spoken. By such means the members learn something of the language, customs, and life of the Spanish people.

The French Club

THE French Club is composed of only those students who take French II or higher. Notwithstanding this fact it has grown to be the largest club on the campus. It is not only the largest but one of the most energetic and loyal organizations at Piedmont.

The Club holds monthly meetings consisting of plays, lectures, and writings on subjects pertaining to France and the French.

With Professor Burrage as advisor the Club has had one of its most successful years. It was through his efforts and those of the president, Warren Lovett, that the Club was able to carry out its programs in French.

"Vive la France."

The Drama League

*T*HE purpose of the Drama League is to stimulate interest in dramatics, train students in public speaking, and, so far as possible, eliminate "stage fright."

The Drama League is carefully supervised by the head of the expression department. Mrs. Loveland has contributed a great deal to the success of this organization, and it is through her that it receives most of its initiative.

Plays are presented throughout the college year, and at commencement a play is presented which attracts very much interest. Much time and effort are devoted to the presentation of these plays, since it is the purpose of the League to develop along these lines.

HOW beautiful are the words of the poet, and how fittingly they may be applied to the Gamma Chi Society where "Love" and "Wisdom" dwell. Thoughts become deeper than speech and feelings deeper than thoughts when we hear the name of Gamma Chi. It upholds the perfect model of youth, and it instills into the hearts of its members the ideal of truth, beauty and goodness.

Gamma Chi has sought to present in its meetings something of the cultural arts, such as literature, drama, and music, and at the same time something that is amusing and pleasing.

The Gamma Chis who have gone out from their Alma Mater feel the calling to return and seek again the joys of its sanctuary. Their interest and love were manifested at the Tenth Anniversary Program by presenting the Society with a lovely silver vase. This token is given a choice place in the hearts of Gamma Chis.

Our Tenth Anniversary Program was dedicated as a memorial to Mrs. Henry C. Newell. The program was divided into three parts: Song Pictures, Her Uncle's Boots, and the Presentation of Sponsor and Mascot. The versatility of the program made it one long to be remembered by its audience.

THE Protropian Literary Society was organized thirty-five years ago. Since its organization it has contributed to the formation of noble character and high ideals among the young men who have sought training at Piedmont.

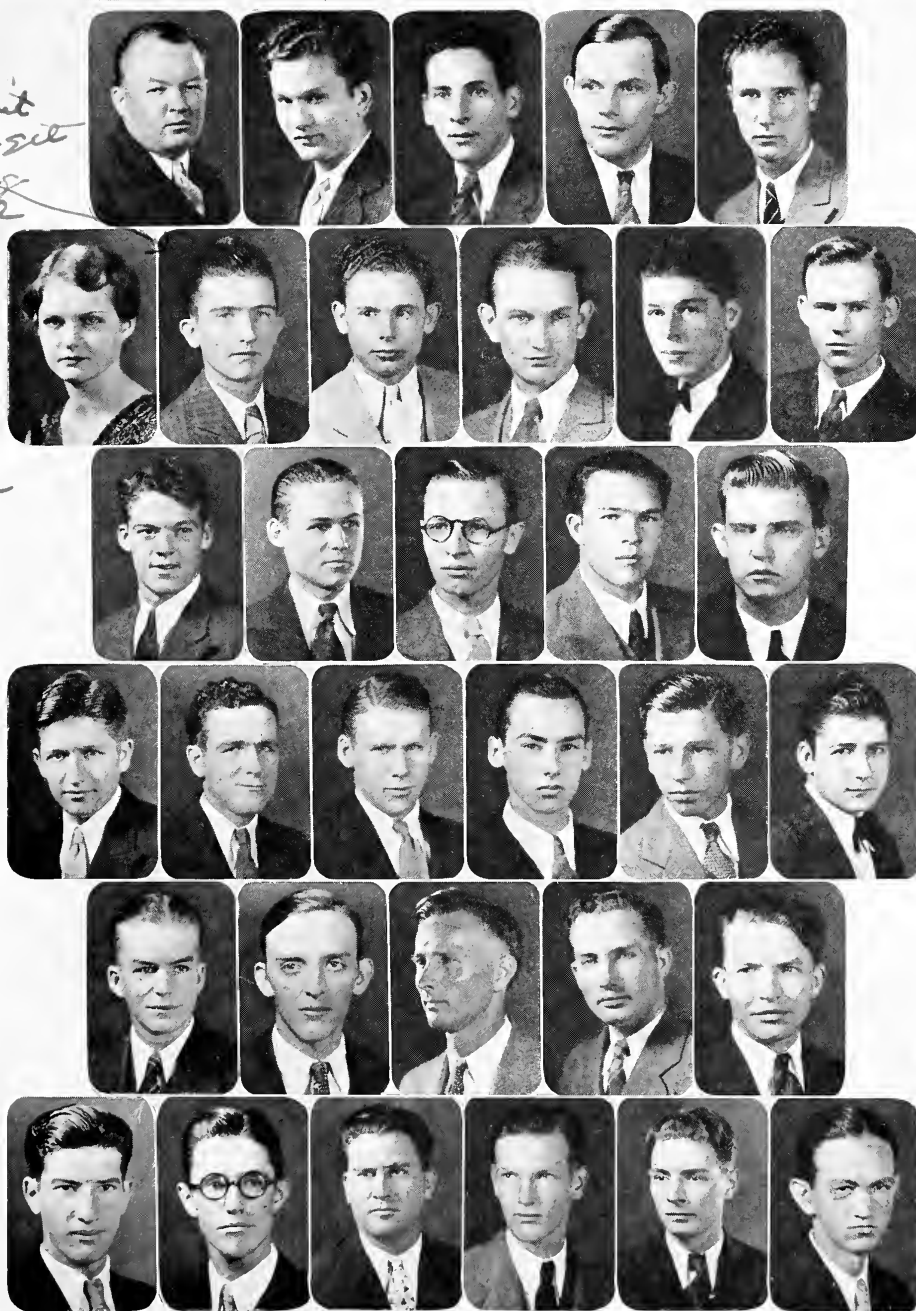

The primary object of the Protropian Society is to bring together men with kindred interests, thoughts, and ideals so that they may enjoy each other's society and gain mutual benefits. The society binds men together so that each individual may lend to the entire group the elements of strength and talent which he possesses, and may in turn receive the help, inspiration and protection of the whole organization.

The vital and verifying principle of the Protropian Society is the element of brotherly love, sympathy, and co-operation.

The Protropian Society believes and teaches that in concerted action, and there only, lies the power of man to achieve greater results.

Manhood is the only principle, and love the binding force of the society. Grounded on such lofty ideals, what cannot be reasonably expected from the organization. It embodies all that is best, all that is noblest in the nature of any Literary Society.

IN EVERY human heart there is a desire for a stronger bond of union among fellowmen. There is always an inner urge to get into a group.

Theta Zeta Phi seeks to satisfy such feelings by giving its members an opportunity to form closer and stronger friendships.

Aside from the social contact the literary value gained is of extreme importance. It helps to create a desire for higher and better things, thus forming new cornerstones for the building of education. By doing these things Theta Zeta has helped to keep the literary standards up to par.

Theta Zeta stands as a living monument to its members who have so verifyingly upheld its standards.

THE J. S. Green Literary Society, the oldest society on Piedmont's campus, was organized in 1887 for the purpose of developing the art of speech in debates. It is now grasping every chance to help in the restoration of debating which has long since become almost a dead art on the campus.

"Once a J. S. Green, always a J. S. Green," is the whole sentiment of every old member as well as of every new one, because a J. S. Green can always be recognized by his whole-hearted belief in the society and each of his fellow members.

The society selected as their sponsor this year Miss Margaret Newman, winner of the State Atwater Kent Radio Contest for high Sopranos in 1927. Miss Newman is a very popular faculty member at Piedmont, being the head of the vocal music department, and an authority in dramatics.

The Thirty-fifth Anniversary Program, which was held this year, included a unique presentation of the sponsor, and a one act play "Them Actors From Tater Vine." The response of the audience proved the great success of the whole entertainment.

Success is always true of the J. S. Greens. Not only in stage presentations but in every undertaking do they further substantiate their ideals which are, all in all, centered about the one word, "Excelsior."

Offices and Store

In the production of fine books, or for that matter, fine printing of any sort there must be an adequacy of

Understanding and experience to plan and interpret « Of workers who have mastered their crafts « Of materials of the best quality « And of modern equipment and exact skill in its direction. « « «

These sales and service offices and this manufacturing plant are evidences of an inflexible rule that adequacy must be maintained at « « «
